Championship honors of the first Red River Valley Debate Tournament held on the Concordia campus last Friday and Saturday were won by Gabriel Hauge and Milford Tysseland, Concordia representatives—defeating the University of North Dakota and Aberdeen Teachers College teams in the final rounds. Jack Bridges and Gordon Hanson, M. S. T. C. students, were eliminated in the fifth round of competition, while a second team composed of Martha Atkinson and Luverne Lewis lost in the fourth round.

Sixteen teams representing seven neighboring colleges including Concordia, Aberdeen Northern State College, University of North Dakota, North Dakota State College, Jamestown College, Mayville Teachers, Jamestown, and M. S. T. C. were entered.

Gamma Nu Sorority Will Celebrate Anniversary

Sorority Formed To Encourage Better School Spirit And Stronger Friendships

Celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Gamma Nu sorority, active members, alumnae, and friends will hold a banquet at the Waldorf hotel, Fargo, Saturday evening, February 17.

The Gamma Nu sorority was formed by four girls who attended high school together and later the Moorhead Normal as it was known then. Being very close friends, they often talked of organizing a society or sorority in the school that would make the ties of friendship stronger, and that would encourage social activities and that would have high aims and ideals, and among them, scholarship, and that would foster better school spirit and higher standards.

With these four and six other girls, the Gamma Neche Sorority was formed February 12, 1909, with the encouragement and help of Dr. Weld and Miss Abbie Louise Day. Miss Day, a critic teacher in the Training School at that time, and the first directress, did a great deal to make Gamma Neche a reality. The name was later changed to Gamma Nu.

The committees in charge of the twenty-fifth anniversary banquet are headed by Edna Rost, general chairman. She is assisted by Vivian Mero, arrangements; Aileen O'Laughlin, place cards and decorations; Martha Atkinson, invitations; Mrs. Minnie Lynner, program; and Ione Weir, decorations.

Invitations have been sent to all alumnae of the sorority, together with honorary members, faculty members, patronesses and past directresses.

The decorations for the banquet will be in keeping with the sorority colors and flowers. Edna Addison, a member of the local alumni chapter, is toastmistress. The evening's program will include a history of the sorority, a memorial anniversary service, the last five years of Gamma Nu and messages from here and there. The theme chosen for a series of speeches will be words, each beginning with one letter of the word silver, as it is the group's silver anniversary.

During the course of the evening there will be musical numbers by various Gamma Nu members. The evening will close with the singing of sorority songs and Gamma Nu taps.

Miss Olga d'Allaz In Fourth Lyceum Number

Characterizes People Of Lower Europe; Program Scheduled On Eve Of February 26

As the fourth number of the current Lyceum series, Miss Olga d'Allaz will characterize in song, dance, and story the picturesque peoples from the Baltic to the Black Sea. The program is scheduled for Weld Hall auditorium, Monday, February 26, at 8:15 p. m.

Included in her program here will be songs of the Polish peasants, songs from Czechoslovakia with its districts of Moravia and Slovakia, songs from Rumania, Turkish songs of the harem, and Roumanian gypsy songs. Anecdotes and personal experiences will precede the various song and dance numbers.

Polish Songs Featured

Miss d'Allaz, as wife of the American Military Attache and member of the diplomatic corps in Poland, has visited many remote spots in that country, seldom seen by foreigners. Thus she has collected a large number of Polish folk songs never heard before except in the regions of Poland where they originated.

She has songs of the Tatra mountaineers who resemble the American Indians in appearance and customs, songs of the Hutzels, the remnant of an ancient race, and songs of the Ruthenian and Polish peasants from the various regions such as Polesia, Volhynia, Krakow, Wilno, Lowicz, etc.

To Be Given In Costume

Singing these songs in the original dialects with brilliant costumes and native dance steps, Miss d'Allaz presents to her American audience a veritable picture of the romantic peasant life of this little known part of Eastern Europe. Poland's foremost poetess, Miss Kasimira Illakowicz, secretary to the great Polish patriot, Marshal Pilsudski, has contributed also to the repertoire of Miss d'Allaz.

Townpeople may purchase reserve seats for the program at Mackall's Drug Store. Students may exchange their activity tickets for reserved seats in Room 244 from 1 to 2 p. m., Thursday and Friday, February 22 and 23.

Schoolmasters Club To Meet At Detroit Lakes

The Schoolmasters Club will hold its next meeting at Detroit Lakes, on March 14. The club met at the Moorhead High School, February 14. The meeting, held in the gayly decorated home economics rooms, proved to be a real Valentine party. Sixty members were present.

T. V. Blair of Fargo talked on "Unit Costs in Secondary Education," and Superintendent R. E. Duddles, Ulen, and Principal L. Gustafson, Barnesville, discussed the merits and demerits of State Board examinations. Music was furnished by Boys' Glee Club of Moorhead High School under the direction of Hans Thorgimsen and by the orchestra under the direction of Elmer Uggem.

DOROTHY HOEL ENTERTAINS COMMISSION AND DR. ARCHER

The members of the Student Commission and Dr. Archer, their adviser, were guests at a luncheon given Thursday, February 15, by Dorothy Hoel. Lunch was served in the Hollyhock Room, Comstock Hall.

'Show-Off,' Class Play, Is Presented Before A Capacity Audience

Leads Of Play Are Portrayed By Vance Hallack, Clara Carter, Gladys Flom

Moving under his own steam from the rise of the curtain in Act One to its fall in Act Two, and living in a fantastic dream world of his own creation, Aubrey Piper was masterfully interpreted by Vance Hallack, Fargo, in the "Show-Off," by George Kelly, which was presented last evening in Weld Hall auditorium as the annual class play under the direction of Miss Ethel Tainter.

The play, presented to a capacity house, proved a delightful contrast to the tragic drama type which has characterized annual class productions for the past few years. Aubrey Piper, liar, braggart, and egotist, was well supported by the other characters, and much credit for the success of the show must go to them. Clara Carter, Grand Rapids, Michigan, cast in the role of Mrs. Fisher, and faced with the problem of her daughter's marriage to a man the family despises, was outstanding for her consistent and superb acting. The part of her daughter Amy, who could only see the likeable side of Aubrey, was admirably played by Gladys Flom, Devils Lake, N. D.

No "Show-Off" could be complete without Joe, the youngest member of the household who was always inventing something, played by Leverett Hoag, Harwood, N. D. Lyman Bringgold, Pine Island, played the part of Frank Hyland, Clara's husband, who was always willing to give Aubrey a hand; Oliver Asp, Thief River Falls, took the part of Mr. Fisher. Mr. Gill, a friend of Mr. Fisher's, was played by Odwin Lee, Borup, while Mr. Rogers, the insurance man, was Vincent Schneider, Davenport, N. D.

Dean H. S. Brewster To Address Chapel

Mr. Murray Addresses Assembly On American Writers And Ideals

Dean H. S. Brewster of the Gethsemane Cathedral in Fargo, will be the guest speaker at Chapel exercises next Wednesday, February 21. His subject will be "George Washington," in keeping with Washington's birthday.

"American Writers and American Ideals," was the subject of an address given by Mr. Murray of the College in Chapel last Wednesday. The main idea which he brought out was that in our present situation when great changes are being made, it might be well to look back over the road we have come, and see what the ideas of great writers and thinkers like Roger Williams, Jefferson, Emerson, Lincoln, Lowell and others were on the questions of democracy and individual rights.

"The logical basis of democracy is the assumption that while people are not equal in ability, they are equally measureless in capacities," said Mr. Murray.

He also raised the question as to whether or not we are now following the ideals of the great thinkers of the past.

Dr. W. E. Peik To Be Next Speaker Of The A. A. U. P.

It is planned to have Dr. W. E. Peik of the University of Minnesota as the next speaker of the A. A. U. P., at the March meeting. A joint evening session is also planned to be held at the College with the A. A. U. P. chapter of the North Dakota State College, Fargo, as guests.

The February luncheon was held Wednesday, February 14, in the Hollyhock Room. President MacLean discussed the question of the acceptancy of the proposed curriculum for Minnesota State Colleges from the curriculum committee, and Mr. Schwendeman discussed "Faculty Participation in Extra Curricular Activities in Colleges and Universities," using figures compiled from three colleges in this section.

The Collegian, publication of creative work of students from Moorhead State Teachers College, North Dakota State, and Concordia, will be issued on Monday, February 19. Copies may be secured from Wilson Dokken.

Schwendeman, M.S.T.C. Teacher, Contributes To Geography Series

Portion Devoted To Minnesota In "Our World And Ourselves" By Instructor

Of more than local import is the announcement by the American Book Company of the publishing of the second of the new four-book series of "Our World and Ourselves," because J. R. Schwendeman, head of the Geography department of the College, has written the portion devoted to Minnesota.

This new series of geographies embodies the new spirit and new objective of geography teaching as demanded by the most progressive course of study.

"The Minnesota Edition of Our Home State and Continent" has been prepared especially for the Minnesota schools. In the sixty-five pages devoted to Minnesota the emphasis throughout is upon the fundamental geographic factors and relations that influence men's lives and occupations. A brief account is given of the early history of the state, its explorations, settlement, and development, and also of its physiographic and other features. Each of the natural regions is taken up separately: Prairie, Hill Woodland, Lake Plain, Moraine Lake Forest, Lake Swamp, and Upland Lake Forest.

On examining the book one finds that the language is adapted to the age level of the child, beautiful illustrations and maps add to the instructional value, and the wealth and variety of pupil activities make the study of geography interesting. Also, geography is correlated with history and other kindred studies wherever it will advantageously broaden the pupil's vision.

Mr. Schwendeman is to be congratulated on his splendid piece of work. It is suggested that anyone interested in the field of geography examine the book. Several M. S. T. C. students who were majoring in geography aided in the preparation of maps for the book.

Cast Of "Show-Off" Shown Off In Clay By Artful Shapers

Plasticine models of the "Show-Off" cast posed for public inspection in the halls of MacLean Hall this week. Neatly arranged on a large box-stage, they "showed off" before the passing students, who more often stopped than passed. The figures, modeled by Related Art students, portrayed the maker's interpretation of the physical appearance of the leading characters in the class play, "The Show-Off." They not only attracted considerable student attention to the forthcoming dramatic production, but they also awakened a recognizable humorous appreciation of their various undulating lines and curves.

On the whole, the plasticine models enjoyed a successful stage career. One minor mishap, however, is brought to our attention. It seems that the matronly lady who sat at the edge of the stage, industriously sewing, becoming embarrassed by the frequent attentions and overly bold stare of the student body, dropped her sewing basket on the floor, spilling needles, thread, cloth, and all.

We sympathize with the shy clay woman, but we sympathize more with the living characters of "The Show-Off" who, with the addition of words and movements, were required to present an even better picture of the play than the plasticine people had already done.

Doris Johnson was confined to her room Thursday because of an infection in her arm.

WHAT ARE WE DOING?

Imagination takes us on in successive steps. One idea after another passes before our views. What are we doing? We wake up from our day-dream, collect ourselves, and find that we have been planning for the future. The young man wants to know, to be somebody, to explore unknown regions, to master a hitherto unexplained phenomenon. What if he cannot do it; is he getting discouraged? Every man's opportunity will come some time, and it is his duty to be ready for it.

We have a right to excel our fellow students, if we do it with the purpose of making ourselves better fitted for life. Nothing is more striking in the history of our country, nor more suggestive of the aspiration and idealism in the American character, than the eagerness with which young men, even from early colonial times, have fought their way in the face of great obstacles to the sources of knowledge, and have made themselves educated men and women against tremendous odds.

We hear so much talk about degeneracy in our times; people are only seeking wealth. But when we look at our schools, we certainly are strongly impressed with the thought that not all of our young people are entirely given over, body and soul, to the pursuit of money.

—A. A. A.

HOW MANY HAVE YOU READ?

You have probably heard of the Book-A-Month Club. Why not go one better and read two good books a month? Here is a suggestion: "Magnificent Obsession," by Douglas, and "Across The Gobi Desert," by Hedin, with 114 illustrations to catch the college reader's eye, are two new books which are available in our library; why not begin with these for your first two books a month?

As one author has stated, "Literature is a mirror of life, reflecting those human interests and problems which grow out of our contacts with one another; one of its chief values is to enable us to understand and appreciate life. In fact, literature IS life."

I wonder why more people, especially we students, when it is so obviously to our advantage, don't utilize the libraries available for our use more extensively than we do—that is, along reading lines, not speaking lines. We seemingly fail to realize the advantages a well-read person holds over one who is less well-versed in literature.

Our libraries are for the sole purpose of furnishing us with the proper instructive and entertaining material. We may say, "Oh, that library hasn't anything in it." Just try reading some of the good books which ARE in that library and see how quickly your ideas concerning this opinion will change.

With the splendid libraries that are available to college students so close at hand, let's make reading at least a major side-line hobby if not our main one.

From The Editor's Semicircle

Mr. Murray says there have been co-eds on the MiSTic before but not co-editors. Both he and we are wondering what is going to come of it.

The "Show-Off," an entirely different type of play from the usual production, was a big success.

A lake is being constructed on the Iowa State College campus by CCC workers. Nature has deprived us of the opportunity of giving the unemployed this kind of work.

The eighth graders on the College High debate squad are doing fine work; more power to them!

College Life Tips

A gentleman of Valley City T. C., not to be left unentertained because of a Co-eds' Ball being held one evening, dressed himself in borrowed female finery and attempted to "crash the hen party." The girls, however, objected to this male intruder, rushed "her" off "his" feet and out the door. Gentlemen take heed, there is safety in numbers of men, not women.

Ninety-five Freshmen at Ohio State are over 25 years of age. There's a movement to mark them so the Sophomores will quit calling them "Sir" when they speak to them on the street. The oldest Freshman at the University of Manitoba is 70.

Clinical tests made in New York by Dr. A. F. Zuege show that it would be wise to serve chocolate bars during long and exhausting examinations. Much better not to have the exams at all, Doctor.

The Valley City T. C. paper tells us that one of the sanest editorials of the fortnite was published by the Moorhead MiSTic under the title, "Is It Worth It?" How many M. S. T. C. students read it? It was written by Gordon Hanson.

"The Gentle Art of Going to the Dogs" was the subject of Dr. Herbert Heaton's recent address before the College Women's Club of Minneapolis. Evidently the ladies are taking up their college education again.

College slang is O. K., says the profs at Mills College. Swell guys, those profs. They cover their retreat, though, by adding that, after all, campus talk is a technical language.

From "The Gamecock," of the University of South Carolina, we find this item—"Add to headline collection this from the Western MiSTic: 'Fantastic Figures Feature Frivolous Freshman Frolic.'"

PARKING VS. BEAUTY

A faculty committee some time ago made a concerted effort to establish parking rules for vehicles of the students and teachers in order to eliminate congestion of the driveways. It is now apparently evident that these regulations are not being followed strictly, and perhaps a change would be desirable.

There has been some unfavorable comment on the cluttered-up appearance of the driveway in front of MacLean Hall and also Weld Hall. This is certainly no place to park one's automobile for any length of time. The presence of vehicles in these two places is seemingly a reflection on the sense of beauty and orderliness which should be present in the minds of students of the College.

Would it not be a good plan to provide a special parking space or block for these vehicles? Perhaps a space of this sort could be arranged to the south or east of Comstock Hall. At least, such an arrangement would go a long way in beautifying our College Campus.

Dragon Dreams

(By Margaret Evje)

I had been in the business of writing term topics, when someone told me it was not the ideal thing to do. Since then, my business has gone bankrupt. I regret the loss of income even while I harbor a secret strain of elation, which comes uppermost whenever I compare myself to others; for am I not living now according to my ideals—or rather, according to the ideals of a friend?

Thus you see: this talk of ideals is part mud. And the rest of it is the fine, fresh mist dripping down as a forecast of spring. When we think of ideals in terms of our own superiority, then they become as melting ice and mud puddles; but when we think of them in their relation to others, they bask in our eyes like the first warmth of approaching spring. Yet, when the first warm day wades, haltingly, through the mud, who would not willingly turn upon it a smile of encouragement?

Very soon, as the term comes to an end, the flunks and the honor roll shall be duly recorded and accepted with a mixture of self-complacency, disappointment, and feigned indifference. There are many, indeed, who will look upon their grades, not as a measure of achievement, but rather as a measure of neglect. They will not, however, compute any loss, for present loss

Alice Visits Realm Of The Red Dragon

Alice's next host-to-be, the Red Dragon, had just dined in a none too sparing fashion on Freshman Filets and Froibles, and because such a meal always made him introspective and philosophical, he stretched himself out to bask at his ease. Alice, having dined on saffron bun, was not to be intimidated by his ferocious mouth and sallied up to him with her important question.

"Say, Mr. Red Dragon, the White Queen told me before I left her that you were quite, quite particular about the behavior of your young visitors; now I really want to please you, sir, so tell me, do you approve of sophisticated people?"

"Of course I do!" shorted Mr. Red Dragon, who was disturbed by such a question at a time when he expressly decided to ponder on the revaluation of currency and its effect on Dragon land. "And people who do not," he added, being quite carried away with his topic, "merely misunderstand that word sophistication. Ah, my child (he was beginning to like Alice for her intelligent questions and knowing look of understanding) sophistication is a rare quality which cometh as a rain from heaven (no that was the mercy speech).

"It is the outward form of the true inward feeling, and it manifests itself in poise and that certain savoir faire which brings its possessor a bit more than head and shoulders above the crowd. It is marked by a sense of calm and coolness while those who lack this essential of charm, sophistication, may fret and become embroiled at the least cloud appearing over the horizon. In meeting a charming young possessor of this enviable trait, the observer marks the absence of stumbling with words and reticence in conversation on his new acquaintance's part and is impressed with the richness of the newly presented person's sense of security—arrogance totally absent.

"Now, Alice," the Dragon assumed a new tone of firmness, "don't ever get true sophistication confused with the lifted eyebrow of what the uninformed person believes is that quality. Mock sophistication as manifested by the many impersonations of some such talented actress as Greta Garbo, and like the poor, don't we always have them with us, is not an attribute that will even for a brief time impress people, for its very shallow-pseudo-sophisticate an object for pity, nesc defeats its aim and renders the or horse-laughter.

"Ah, far more genuinely sophisticated young people, for less of the see-through-me-in-a-minute type, for more of the comforting nonchalance—"

Alice interrupted; after all, she had been very attentive. "Please, Red Dragon, what is non-chalance?"

"I'm sleepy," quoth Sir Red Dragon. "Go home."

Training School Plans Annual Spring Musical

Rehearsal Has Started On "Melinka Of Astrakhan," Russian Operetta

"Melinka of Astrakhan," a newly released operetta, has been selected by the Training School for the annual spring operetta to be given some time in April.

Although no individual parts have been assigned as yet, the choruses have started rehearsing. As this operetta is Russian in character, it contains many fine dances and choruses. The production is under the general direction of Miss Wenck.

Mrs. Mae McCubrey Smith of the Warren Teachers Training department, was a Moorhead visitor this weekend. Mrs. Smith is one of the two remaining charter members of the Gamma Nu sorority.

After spending a week's vacation at her parental home here in Moorhead, Miss Martha Anderson, a Teachers College alumna, has again resumed her teaching obligations in the Hawley public schools.

Among the weekend visitors on the Campus was Miss Theone Hanson. Miss Hanson also attended the Beta Chi banquet before returning to Elizabeth, where she is engaged in teaching.

Word was received last week that Miss Grace Harriet Hagen had been pledged to the Gamma Phi Beta sorority at the U. of Minn. Miss Hagen is a former M. S. T. C. student and while on our Campus she was affiliated with the Pi Mu Phi sorority.

Messrs. Gorman and Ward Thompson were Campus visitors Saturday evening. Both are degree graduates of last spring.

Miss Margaret Ballard left Sunday evening for Ortonville, where she teaches the third grade, after spending the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ballard.

It is interesting to note that one of our former degree graduates, now a teacher at Detroit Lakes, took second place last week in the rifle club. Mr. Charles Wendell has held down first place for several successive weeks previous to this.

Dr. Archer Gives Talk At Concordia Chapel Monday

"Abraham Lincoln was a self-made man; but because of this, he was no different from anyone else, for everyone is self-made," said Dr. Archer before the Concordia chapel last Monday.

Dr. Archer discussed Lincoln's early life and environment. In his talk he quoted two statements made by Lincoln when he was debating against Judge Douglas. He said, "You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Dr. Archer applied this to situations in everyday life. "Take for instance the graft that is going on," he said.

The other statement, "Slavery is like a serpent—you work I eat; you labor, I enjoy the fruits of it," was likened to the conditions of the farmer at the present time. The farmer works, but other people profit by his work.

Delegates for the convention of the Minnesota Athletic Association of College Women which will be held at the University of Minnesota were appointed last Wednesday at a meeting of the W. A. A. Those appointed were Jewel Ydstie, Margaret Johnson, Frances Olson, Elizabeth Hoag, and Grace Meland. The girls will leave for the convention Friday night and will return sometime Sunday.

The Women's Athletic Associations of a few of the colleges in and around the Twin Cities have been meeting on a Saturday afternoon each year for a Play Day for the last seven or eight years. The ten colleges participating in the past included St. Catherine, Carleton, St. Olaf, Hamline, Macalester, Concordia in St. Paul, Concordia in Moorhead, Augsburg, Gustavus Adolphus and the University of Minnesota. This year all of the State Teachers Colleges have been asked to join the League.

The program for the day consists of indoor sports, discussion groups, a tour of the campus, a general meeting. It will close with a banquet and skits by the different colleges.

M.S.T.C. Dragons To Clash Against Fast-Charging Bulldogs

Team Triumphs Over Bemidji Last Saturday Night; High Score By Robinson

(By Walter Severson)
After a 38 to 27 triumph over Bemidji last Saturday night, Coach Nemzek's Dragons hope to avenge the 43 to 41 defeat handed them by Duluth's Bulldogs earlier in the season. The Dragons will line up against the fast charging Bulldogs at 8:00 o'clock to-night on the College gymnasium court.

The importance of this contest can be seen by the fact that if the Dragons defeat Duluth, they will have a conference percentage standing of .667. Coach Nemzek's team has defeated Bemidji twice, Winona once, and has dropped a game to both Mankato and Duluth. The Moorhead team plays only six games, while most of the other conference schools play eight games.

Dragons Lead
In the game played at Bemidji last Saturday night, Coach Nemzek's Dragons stepped into the lead at the outset of the game and managed to keep a margin throughout the game except for a brief time at the beginning of the third quarter.

The score at half time was 16 to 7 with the Dragons out in front, but at the beginning of the third quarter, the Beavers from Bemidji began gnawing away at the Dragons' lead and with six minutes of the third canto gone, the count stood at 21 to 17 with the Dragons on the short end of the count.

The Beavers' smart offensive functioned so well that in six minutes time, they collected 14 points while holding Nemzek's clan to one digit. The third quarter ended 21 to 21 after Buzz Robinson pitched two setups through the net.

The smooth teamwork of the Dragon quint became apparent in the scoring column at the beginning of the fourth quarter when Alden Christianson and Wally Erickson connected for many beautiful passes to Robinson, who swished four field goals through the net in the second half.

Thompson In
Maynard Thompson, re-entering the game for Christianson and Herb Lange replacing Captain Mattson, who was ejected from the game because of the maximum number of personals, each contributed baskets near the end of the game to help the Dragons' offense.

Carl Fridlund with nine points was again outstanding because of his great all-around play. Robinson copped scoring honors with six field goals and two gift shots for a total of 14 points.

Six Books Are Gift Of Peace Endowment

Six new Political Science books have been added to the library. They were the gift from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace to the International Relations Club. These books include "History of Women's Education in the United States," by Thomas Woody, professor of history of education, University of Pennsylvania; "The Future Comes," a study of the New Deal, Charles A. Beard and George E. Smith; "Germany Enters the Third Reich," Calvin B. Hoover; "World Revolution and the U. S. S. R.," Michael T. Florinsky; "Europe Since 1914," F. Lee Bennis; and "Caribbean Backgrounds and Prospects," Chester Lloyd Jones.

"Modelling and Sculpture," Albert Taft, has also been added to the library; also "The Traipsin Woman," Jean Thomas, in which she followed the trails of the circuit court trials in the Kentucky hills. She was "the Traipsin Woman," the court stenographer, or "short writer," who accompanied the judge from courthouse to courthouse, transcribing the vivid testimony of feuds, murders, and the judgment of the law.

She was a mountain woman herself. Had she come from "the level," she would have been an enemy. Hence, without arousing suspicion, she could observe the mountain festivals; she could make friends and teach them reading and writing; she could collect ballads and preserve in its marvellous original prose and poetry an accurate picture a 250 year old civilization untouched until yesterday. No book like this has been written in America since Maristhan Chapman's "Happy Mountains." It is a book that will live.

the dispute over third place in the intramural basketball standings when they clash at 4:15. Following this battle, the Hercules will attempt to stretch their victory string to three in combating the last-place Cyclops.

The feature of this week's play was the upset of the leading Atlases by the lowly Hercules quint, 18-16, in an overtime battle, with Bringgold sinking the winning basket. The Hercules came from behind to tie the score at 16 all at the end of the regulation time on a free throw by Joe Brula. Although held to four field goals, the Hercules capitalized on free throws, sinking eight.

Tuesday the Atlases set back the Apollos, 17-13, in a hard-fought battle for first place. By losing, the Vulcans were shoved into third place. In the meanwhile, the Messengers of Hermes slid into second place by virtue of a 17-9 win over the tail-end Cyclops five.
